Hi Jaden, I have not had a chance to compare what the insurance added to the cost of the repairs for your BMW but with the check they sent me ($415.16) all I will need is your go ahead on repairing the front bumper cover, painting it and putting it back together with the extra new bumper reinforcement, your headlilghts and repairing the hood. I hope you'll be satisfied with the work but using the guy I use is going to be as inexpensive as I can offer. It may not come out perfect but everything he has done has been satisfactory. The differance will be $825 from you once it's done.

I assume I will be able to locate a bumper reinforcment locally because the insurance only allowed a small amount compared to new so I'll have to try to find a used one locally since they did not include shipping. Please reply with your go ahead so we can proceed with getting this vehicle completed.
