

Complaint has been submitted

no-reply@reportfraud.ftc.gov <no-reply@reportfraud.ftc.gov>

Tue 1/18/2022 5:58 PM

To: fraudclaimreport-dec2021@outlook.com <fraudclaimreport-dec2021@outlook.com>

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION
ReportFraud.ftc.gov

We Have Your Report!

Report number: 143817218

Thank you for filing a report with the Federal Trade Commission and helping to fight fraud in your community.

The FTC does not resolve individual reports, but your report will be entered in the FTC's Consumer Sentinel database and will be available to federal, state, and local law enforcement across the country.

Your Next Steps

If you believe your car is defective:

- Check your warranty booklet for information about the lemon law in your state and the availability of programs to help. State "lemon laws" protect people who bought defective cars and trucks by giving them the right to a replacement vehicle or a refund. Most automakers participate in free arbitration programs to resolve lemon law disputes, and some states operate lemon law arbitration programs.
- Check with your state attorney general or local consumer protection agency to learn more about the specific lemon laws in your state.

Want To Learn More?

You can get answers to common questions the FTC gets about filing a report at ReportFraud.ftc.gov/FAQs.

You can also update your report with more details at ReportFraud.ftc.gov/Update.

Find out what is going on in your state or metro area at ftc.gov/exploredata.

Check out ftc.gov/refunds to see recent FTC cases that resulted in refunds.